Portfolio Basics

What is a Portfolio and what it is used for?

- A portfolio is a collection of my best UX/UI work that demonstrates my skills, process, and problem-solving abilities to potential employers or clients.

- It's used to show how I approach design challenges—not just the final product, but the research, iterations, and decisions behind it.

- It also helps me stand out by highlighting my unique perspective (e.g., user-centered focus, accessibility improvements, or collaboration methods).